EDUCATIONAL IS THE OFFERING AT LIBERTY THEATER

Unusual Treat is Provided By Management for "Movie" Patrons of Honolulu

Again the management of Ye Liberty theater has provided an unusual treat for "movie" theatergoers of Honolulu. In this instance it is also again a big spectacular educational show, depicting a scene that few persons on the globe have the fortune or rather the misfortune to witness. It is that of the wrecking and sinking of a big ocean liner after collision with an iceberg. The title of the play is "Lost in Mid-Ocean," and a powerful story is told in addition to the wreck feature and a following fire scene. It was shown yesterday for the first time and will continue for a week.

One's blood almost is congested as he watches an ocean greyhound racing through the dark sea for a big mountain of ice. The picture alternates to gay scenes in the saloons of the ship and to the closer approach to disaster.

Then comes the crash; the doomed ship slides away from the engine of destruction and wallows helplessly in the trough of the big waves; wireless operators are seen in their little cubbyholes exchanging frantic messages; ships are seen to change their courses and rush to the rescue; passengers on the doomed ship are seen rushing about the decks which are awash. The final plunge of the steamer to the bottom of the ocean is plainly shown. The rescue ships arrive and survivors who have escaped in small boats are saved. The heroine of the story was on board the ship. She had been separated from her husband in Japan through the machinations of a wealthy Japanese who had become infatuated with her. She escapes from her captors and takes a steamer immediately following the one in which her husband had sailed. He had believed until far out at sea that she was aboard, and did not learn otherwise until he received a wireless telling her his bride was following. The boat on which she was a passenger was the boat which sank. He was on one of the ships which went to the rescue. He could not find his wife and believed she had perished. In a big eastern city he decided to leave his old haunts and became a recluse. In the meantime his wife had escaped drowning, having dragged herself on to a piece of wreckage when the ship went down, and 24 hours later was picked up by Japanese fishermen.

She went to the big American city, but could not find her husband. Penalties, she takes small apartments. Fire breaks out and she risks her life to save a picture painted by her husband. The husband reads of the incident in a newspaper and visits the hospital where the woman has been taken. There he finds the wife whom he has believed was dead. The rescue of the bride from the Japanese and the fire scenes are only little behind the wreck for spectacularity.

In addition to this big film there is another, "Officer Jim," portraying some of the trials and tribulations of New York policemen. There are gambling house raids, a desperate fight on the roof of a skyscraper and in the final scene the destruction of a western mining town by explosion and fire. This is attended by a series of heroics performed by "Officer Jim," who has been fed West in search of his former wife and with whom he becomes reunited.

The bill to establish government standard cotton grades was favorably reported in the house.

Talented Little Actress Seen to Splendid Advantage in "Tess of the Storm Country"

"Tess of the Storm Country" is a sermon. A beautiful sermon, delivered with a great deal more force and (silent) eloquence than is possible from the pulpit. No matter how gifted the orator it would be almost an utter impossibility for him to play the range of human emotions so ably handled in the silent drama at the Popular theater for the current week. It is a film that is "different," very, very different.

Branding "Tess of the Storm Country" as a sermon forces the statement that it conveys a lesson—not one, but several. It teaches, among other things, that the "protected" girl, with surroundings of the most ideal nature, is not free from the sin that is as old as time; while the wild child of nature, living alone in a shambles among the roughest kind of men, can wage life's battle successfully, coming through the fire unscathed. It teaches a lesson on the efficacy of faith, in fact, the entire film is built upon the blind and unquenchable faith of a wild child of nature.

So strong is the faith of Tess that, when she is bowed down by the greatest griefs—her father condemned to die, her sweetheart doubting her faithfulness—she finds solace in the words, "They hev taken everything away from me but God."

Little Mary Pickford is at her best in this offering. The promises made for this talented, diminutive actress had sounded rather strong but they fell short of the mark if anything. Her comedy parts are real comedy, the kind that produces spontaneous laughs, while in the sad and sober scenes the tears spring unbidden to the eyes. Mirth and justice come moment, tears and sighs the next is the order of the emotions during the run of the entire six reels.

The story told in "Tess of the Storm Country" is long, interesting and pretty. The picture must be seen to be properly appreciated and enjoyed. It is even worth seeing a second time, possibly oftener. There are many strong scenes, scenes that go to make this film "something different." Prominent in these are the courtroom scene, when Tess' father is convicted of murder and the ignorant child appears in court; another is a scene in church when Tess takes the fatherless little orphan belonging to the sister of her sweetheart to "Be sprinkled so as God can find him," and a storm scene that for the spectacular is far above the average.

To repeat, Mary Pickford proves her ability and versatility beyond any question in "Tess of the Storm Country," and it is safe to say that any film in which she participates that is shown in Honolulu in the future will be assured a heavy patronage. Three capacity houses were recorded yesterday with heavy advance sales for the balance of the week, according to the statement made last night by Manager Samuel Blair.

TRIBULATIONS OF AN ACTRESS TOLD AT EMPIRE

It's no easy job to break into the business of becoming a proficient artist and take a prominent part in the production of moving picture dramas and comedies as is easily attested by the intensely interesting story portrayed through the faithful interpretation by Gertrude McCoy, rated as one of the cleverest actresses on the American and continental stage today. Miss McCoy will be featured at the afternoon and evening performance at the Empire theater when the big attraction, "Peg of the Movies," will be offered for the delectation of Honolulu for the first time in this city. The picture deals with an ever popular theme. The seamy side of the profession is well depicted while there is a strain of comedy running through the production that serves to create a decidedly favorable impression with the spectator. The picture will be shown in two parts.

Departing from the usual line of comedy, the screaming farce, "The Janitor's Quiet Life," with George Mason in the title role will be found to offer one of the funniest moving pictures displayed on a local screen in many weeks. The program will close with two interesting features, "A Foul and Fearful Plot," and "The Troublesome Mole."

SCIENTISTS WILL EXTEND VISIT IN THESE ISLANDS

Prof. von Luschian to Deliver a Lecture at University Club Tonight

Impressed with the opportunity for scientific study that Hawaii offers, Professor Felix von Luschian and Mrs. von Luschian will extend their stay in Honolulu two weeks. The measurements that they have been making in the Bishop Museum of the skulls of the Hawaiians are the first anthropological measurements that have been made. Besides trying to find more skulls to measure they are now making a study of the heads and bodies of living Hawaiians. They hope to make a contribution to the knowledge of the origin and relations of the Polynesians.

Professor von Luschian will deliver a lecture tonight at 8 o'clock, which is attracting much attention, on "Excavations of the Hittite Capitol." This will be given at the University Club to members and guests. Professor and Mrs. von Luschian have made five expeditions to the country of the Hittites, all under the patronage of the German government.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Try It! Hair gets soft, fluffy and luxuriant at once—No more falling hair

If you care for heavy hair, that gleams with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots fester, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?—advertisement.

WOMEN CAN HARDLY BELIEVE

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Eldon, Mo. — "I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It advertises itself." — Mrs. S. T. HURLEY, Eldon, Missouri.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For sale everywhere.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it? Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
